

POWER TOWN by Louis Vorster

UNCOVERING THE FIGHT FOR A PEACEFUL EXISTENCE FROM SUBURBAN REJECTION

A community of 300 people, mostly evicted farm workers, given permission to live beside a disused power station on the outskirts of Mossel Bay, South Africa- the historical capital of the world famous Garden Route and increasingly popular suburban development. This is Power Town.

Vorster depicts the everyday struggle. These people have been settled here for 12 years, making the most of their situation without greed or excess. There is something of the order and tidiness of suburban culture in an alternative environment. This is the other side of suburbia- hard working and simple living.
